THE CRADDOCK CENTER MISSION STATEMENT

Our mission is to deliver educational and cultural programs to children, families, and communities, primarily in Southern Appalachia. We serve by sharing and spreading centuries old traditions of song and story characteristic of the region.

CRADDOCK STORIES

DR. FRED B. CRADDOCK

Once when we were in Oklahoma, they announced a tornado was coming. We stood out in the front yard and watched the tornado, and the weatherman was right— it was coming. We watched it move, and we thought it would change directions. Then we saw that it was not going to change directions, it was going to get our house. So we cranked up the car and started out of the driveway. “Oh, no! Where’s Gretchen?”

Gretchen was this little old sausage dog; she was old. She wouldn’t bring anything on the market. Here comes a tornado, and we take time to go back in and get Gretchen. Now we’re reaching the level of stupidity.

The shepherd had a little enclosure out in the desert. He brings the sheep in, but there are wolves and there are cougars. The shepherd lies down across the gate thinking, Anything that gets to the sheep will have to come by me. Now, we’re approaching something hard. What’s the name for this? The name for it is love.

CHILDREN’S ENRICHMENT PROGRAM

A Difference Made

I told the story about Mr. Rabbit, who was the town grocer, having trouble seeing. Nurse Fox, who was the town nurse, placed a grocery order and saw that Mr. Rabbit was getting her items mixed up. Mr. Rabbit admitted to not being able to see well.

SHARON KISER, CEP ARTIST

Nurse Fox suggested an eye exam, which Mr. Rabbit had done the next day and was fitted for the perfect Rabbit glasses.

A little girl in one of my classes had just gotten glasses, but was hesitant to wear them for fear the other children would make fun of her. She kept her glasses in her pocket.

After I told the story, she pulled her glasses out of her pocket and now wears them every day!
